MURDER WAS COLD BLOODED

Sicilian Vendetta Duplicated by Italians in a Toronto Street

STABBED HIS COMPANION

As he Walked Along with him—The Dead Man a Young Laborer of Excellent Character

Toronto, March 7.—With all the swift and silent fury of the Sicilian vendetta, a cold-blooded murder was perpetrated on Manning avenue just below Collings street at nine o'clock last night. All the parties are Italians. The dead man, Ruffolo Fabbio was a young laborer who had only been in this country a few months. The alleged murderer is a bricklayer aged 40. His name is Pasquali Ventimiglia. He has lived in Toronto for four years past and has borne a good character among his countrymen, working hard and sending earnings home to his wife and children in Italy. Last night Ventimiglia left his room at 250 Clarendon street, well dressed, at 9 p.m. Manning avenue. Tony Bush, his brother-in-law, Tony Bush, Fabbio, and a couple of others met him on the verandah. As he appeared to have been drinking, Bush persuaded him against trying to get in and suggested that he go for a walk down the street. In order to get a ride of him Fabbio and Ventimiglia walked ahead of the other two. Before they had gone a hundred feet they saw Ventimiglia seize Fabbio by the right hand and plunge a knife into him a number of times. An Italian boy of twelve swooned away at the sight. Ventimiglia later was arrested.

WAS LETHBRIDGE MAN

John Canton Committed Suicide in a Hotel at Saskatoon

Saskatoon, March 4.—After working all day Saturday, in an effort to secure positive identification of the unknown man who committed suicide Friday morning, at the Butler Hotel, the police have come to the conclusion that the dead victim is John Canton of Lethbridge. Papers plainly showing that Canton was heavily in debt and this no doubt was the reason of his committing suicide. Canton has a wife and family living at Grand Forks, N.D., and they were notified of the affaire by Chief Dunigan.

MILLIONAIRE ARRESTED

Head of Cudahy Firm Attacked a Man, who May Die from his Injuries

Kansas City, Mo., March 6.—John P. Cudahy, member of the family of packers and president of the Cudahy Packing Company, is under arrest here, charged with stabbing J. Lillies, president of the Western Exchange Bank of this city, at Cudahy's home, 102 East 36th street, early this morning. Lillies is believed to be dying in St. Mary's hospital, and a member of the county prosecutor's office is endeavoring to gain entrance to the institution to take an ante-mortem statement. He is said to be horribly mutilated. Although every effort has been made to keep the details of the affair quiet, it has been learned that Cudahy, after announcing he expected to leave the city, returned to his home early this morning to find Lillies in a room with Mrs. Cudahy.

He is said to have drawn a revolver and forced Lillies to proceed with him to the basement of the magnificent home and mutilated him after tying him with ropes.

Mrs. Cudahy followed him to the basement, pleaded with him to relent, and in response to her pleadings, Cudahy summoned an ambulance and gave himself up to the police.

Death of Frank McDougall

Ottawa, Ont., March 7.—The death occurred here yesterday morning at an advanced age of Frank McDougall, father of D. J. McDougall, Ottawa's Liberal representative in the Ontario Legislature. Mr. McDougall, who was one of the prominent business men of the capital, occupied the chief magistrate's chair in the early nineties. He is survived by his two sons, D. J. M. L. A. for Ottawa, and Charles, both at home. His wife, who was Miss Amelia McGillivray of Alexandria, Ont., pre-deceased him.

A Woman Kicked to Death.

Saskatoon, March 7.—Word was received yesterday of a nasty accident at Clavat, twenty miles from here, on the G.T.R.P. when a woman named Pike was kicked to death by a horse. It appears Mr. and Mrs. Pike were engaged in a barn transferring chickens from one coop to another. Pike had taken an armful of birds from the barn, being absent some time, and upon returning found his wife lying under the horse with her skull split open.

Death of a Veteran Official.

Winnipeg, Man., March 7.—John Flesher of the Dominion Lands Office of this city, died last night. In 1873 he was elected to the Ontario legislature, and that seat until 1877. After coming west Mr. Flesher was appointed land agent and for ten years he was located at Melita, Man. He was transferred to Winnipeg upon the closing of the Melita office. Seven daughters survive him.

ABATTOIR TO COST $500,000

P. Burns Gives Reason for Not Removing Norwood Slaughter House

NOW LOOKING FOR LOCATION

New Packing Plant will be Moderately Equipped and in Good Situation in Regard to Railways

A modern plant to cost in the neighborhood of half a million of dollars, to be commenced just as soon as suitable property can be secured, has been decided upon by P. Burns & Co., meat packers, of this city.

This statement was made by Mr. Burns, the head of the firm, in a conference with Mayor Lee and Commissioner Batchett this morning in regard to the removal of the slaughterhouse in Norwood.

Mr. Burns further stated that the reason the slaughter house had not been removed before was because he had not fully made up his mind as to establishing a meat-packing plant in Edmonton. Now, however, he definitely decided that the plant should be built here at an initial cost of $500,000. It is to be one of the finest and most completely equipped plants in the province.

Now, however, there has been a further delay in securing a suitable location for the plant. Mr. Burns is looking for a site that will be easily reached by all the railway lines, and as soon as he can secure such a location, building operations will be commenced.

It is not at all likely, however, that even if work is commenced as soon as the season opens up, that the plant will be ready for use before next year. It will be almost impossible to complete a plant of the size that Mr. Burns contemplates in one season. Hence there is little likelihood of the slaughterhouse in Norwood being removed before next year. The case will be laid before the council tomorrow night.

Serious Fire at Comber

Comber, Ont., March 7.—A fire destroyed the Frobisher Hotel and business block yesterday. The proprietor of the hotel, Mr. Jacob Louloudis and his family, escaped, partly dressed; Jas. Jenkins occupied the double store in the block and his entire stock was consumed.

WORST DISASTER IN C. P. R.'S HISTORY

Between 63 and 80 Men are Buried in the Snowslide Near Roger's Pass—Particulars Slowly Coming in

Rogers Pass, B. C., March 7.—A mass of wet snow tearing down the mountain side swept between 63 and 80 men to death Saturday morning shortly after midnight and caused perhaps the worst railway wreck in the history of the C. P. R. railway. It is known there are at least 63 men lying beneath the snow and debris for these are railway men. It is known that there are others in the mass but the number is unknown. Of the men 32 are Japs. This is the season for snow slides, and before sunset Friday tremendous slides covered the track. Extra gangs were immediately placed on the road and worked until 1 a.m. Then, without warning, a second slide, more massive than before, swept down with terrific force and blotted out the men in a twinkling, under so foot of snow, filling the cut completely. The combined crews consisted of 100 men but of those 63 were at work with two engines and a rotary clearing track. Some distance behind the remaining men were asleep in cars and resting for their turn on the work. The slide wiped the forward gang completely out of existence. Only one man, John Morton, was saved, and he so badly bruised that he has not recovered consciousness and can give no account of the disaster. The slide, as is always the case, started small, and spread out like a fan as it swept down the mountain. The extent was immense and the outer edges of the fan smashed against the cars with the sleeping men.

"I understand that carloads of freight might be hauled on the street railway to the proposed new site, but there would be expense connected with such hauling, while we pay nothing now for the switching of railway cars to our gates. At our present site we shall require little or no horse labor. I am afraid we should hardly be able to get along at the new site without horses. At any rate, the maintenance of one team to haul supplies from the city would almost certainly have to be provided for.

"But one of the most important advantages of the present site is that our officers can live within easy reach, so that they can be available at any hour if needed. I am afraid we might find it much more difficult to hold our officers in the service if the penitentiary were removed to a less accessible site.

"Finally, upon the mere question of value, there is, of course, no advantage to us in selling our buildings, as we should have to erect others at undoubtedly greater cost, and our present site, so far as mere acreage is concerned, is, I think, of greater market value than the 278 acres in the new site suggested.

"I find myself, therefore, unable to recommend the acceptance of your proposition.

VERY MUCH ALIVE

John Huston says Report of his Death was Considerably Exaggerated

Vancouver, March 4.—John Huston, fur from being dead, as announced in the papers all over the Dominion, arrived at Quesnel Saturday afternoon suffering from insomnia but not very ill. The report appears to have originated with Mr. Fraser, the Corioho member at Victoria. A wire received by Mrs. Huston here said that Huston died at Blackwater, and the morning paper published a long obituary of the noted editor. The news was apparently confirmed by a Prince Rupert dispatch, but all were wrong. Huston had been ill from over-work at Port George, where he established a newspaper six months ago.

SIX ARC LIGHTS IN GROAT ESTATE

Requisitions Made by the Electric Light Department for this Year's Extension in the City

The extensions of the street lighting system for this year will cover a large area if the proposed plans are carried out. The largest of the extensions is a proposal to extend the three miles out to the G.T.P. shops. Seven thousand yards of cable will be required for this purpose.

Other extensions proposed are: Six new arc lights in the Great estate, as follows: One at the corner of St. James and Jasper; one at the corner of Peace and Jasper; one at the corner of Edward and Athabasca; one at the crossing of Edward street and Stony Plain road; one at the corner of Twenty-first street and Stony Plain road; and one at the E. Y. & P. "Y" at Notre Dame. It is now planned to install three others, at which points it has not yet been decided. The completion of the new street to Albany street will necessitate still further lighting extensions.

A new lamp will be put in at the corner of Athabasca and Seventh street, and one between Eleventh and Twelfth on Peace; one or two will be installed in the district north of the track and west of First. Following the decision of the council to adopt the Jasper route to the East End, it will also be necessary to put in a number of new lights along this line. About three-quarters of a mile of the route is at present unlighted. At the exhibition grounds during fair week a temporary service will be required.

The present site suits our purposes admirably. The proposed new site might, or might not, suit us well, so far as the actual conditions of the land are concerned; but even if such conditions were equally satisfactory, there are other considerations of importance which make the present site much more suitable for our purposes.

A Former Senator and Leading Figure in New York Politics for Many Years

New York, March 6.—Thos. Collier Platt, for over a quarter of a century the most powerful factor in New York politics, died today, aged 77. The late senator was founder of modern political machines, and had been one of the most active politicians in the United States up until the hour before his death, which came unexpectedly. He was a member of the 3rd and 4th congress, was elected to the United States senate in 1896, and re-elected in 1902.

PENITENTIARY IS STATIONARY

Letter from Minister of Justice to Mayor Lee Ends Scheme for Removal

PRESENT SITE'S ADVANTAGES

Offer of City for Interchange of Property and Free Light and Water has not Met with Favorable Reception

The extensions of the street lighting system for this year will cover a large area if the proposed plans are carried out. The largest of the extensions is a proposal to extend the three miles out to the G.T.P. shops. Seven thousand yards of cable will be required for this purpose.

The Alberta penitentiary will remain in its present site. All the efforts of the council and the commissioners to get the buildings removed some distance farther east, have been fruitless, and in a letter received from the Minister of Justice this morning, the department states definitely that they can entertain no proposal to move the penitentiary.

It will be remembered that when Meyer Lee and Ald. Garlick were in Ottawa they had a letter before Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, asking the government to remove the penitentiary further out, owing to the fact that the city had grown up all around the present site.

They offered to buy the present buildings, and give in exchange river lots 32 and 34, which have an acreage of 278 acres as compared with 100 of the present site, and in addition offered to install water, electricity, etc., and extend the street car system as soon as required. The Minister of Justice can see that the government would be making a very good bargain, and wrote to Mayor Lee as follows:

Aylesworth's Letter.

Ottawa, March 1, 1910.

"Dear Sir—We have given the best consideration to your offer, the position contained in your letter, of the 1st of January for exchange of the present penitentiary property in Edmonton for river lot 32 and 34, and I should very glad if I could, to accommodate the penitentiary requirements to your wishes as mayor of the city, but I could not advise the acceptance of your proposition.

"Our present site suits our purposes admirably. The proposed new site might, or might not, suit us well, so far as the actual conditions of the land are concerned; but even if such conditions were equally satisfactory, there are other considerations of importance which make the present site much more suitable for our purposes.

BAD NEGRO ON RAMPAGE

Attempted to Murder White Girl in Winnipeg and then Another Colored Man

Winnipeg, March 7.—At 7:30 last night Gus Smith, colored, about 22 years of age, who has been working here as a barber, attempted to murder Verna Miller, 22 years of age, a white woman, formerly of Toronto, of which she is native. The woman was crossing from 187 McFarlane street, of which house she was an inmate to 182 McFarlane street, when Smith came up behind her and drawing a revolver, fired a shot. The woman fell. Then Smith approached closer and fired again, the second bullet entering behind the ear and lodging between the skin and scalp. Smith then demanded with all haste to go to a colored club on Main street, near the C. P. R. depot, and attempted to shoot Jack Johnson, keeper of the club. Johnson, however, was on his guard and succeeded in wresting the pistol from his grasp. The reason for the first crime is attributed to the girl's refusal to live with him and his split against Johnson is stated to be due to his suspicion that he was in some way responsible for the girl's action in this respect.

MEMBERS AND THEIR CONSTITUENTS

It is stated that in several cases members of the Legislature voted on Thursday night not in accordance with their own opinions but in response to prescriptive messages from influential constituents. The incident brings the whole subject of the proper relationship of a member of the Legislature to those who send him there. All that they know of a matter under discussion, is what they learn from reading the newspapers, most of the reports of which are colored. He is on the ground, hears the speeches delivered and has the opportunity of making a careful investigation of the facts for himself. Should he change his views, according to what he learns about the conclusions which the people at home have reached? If he does, he can be of little use there. He may be wrong, or they may be wrong, but he should come to a decision independently on the information before him and stand by it. It may result in his temporary eclipse, but it is the only attitude which will win the permanent respect even of those who are urging him to take the step against his better judgment. Sir Robert Peel's words should be remembered, "I have no desire to be the minister of all England, when certain factions were endeavoring to force him to abandon a stand he had taken, "but so long as I hold the office of prime minister of England, I shall hold it by no servile tenure."

THE ALBERTAN WASN'T UP TO DATE

On Saturday, the Calgary Morning Albertan came out with a series of mandatory references to the Bulletin. Here are a few extracts: "The Alberta Bulletin preserved a discreet silence upon the important question before the legislature, and did not make a sign until Thursday last. Then it came out with one of the best newspaper articles that has been written since the question of the Waterways Railway came up for discussion. The Albertan takes the liberty of publishing it in full. It is the most caustic criticism of the entire transaction that has appeared in print."

"The Edmonton Bulletin took considerable time to make up its mind good and bad, but when it reached a conclusion, it hit upon the right one."

"The action of the Edmonton Bulletin is looked upon with satisfaction and encouragement. Not a word of comment was made until Thursday afternoon, and then the Bulletin came out with the strongest editorial comment of the action of the government that it has published up to date."

The least the Bulletin could have done was to write its Calgary contemporary giving it the contents of its Friday editorial. The comment upon it in today's Albertan are awaiting interest.

TWO PROVINCES AND TWO RAILWAYS

In view of some of the objections to the A. & G. W. agreement, the dispatch from Victoria, giving the details of that between the C. N. R. and the B. C. government is of interest. A sum of $35,000 per mile has been given by the McBride administration. "Such securities," read the dispatch, "shall be secured by an indenture granting a first mortgage or charge on the specific lines so added, upon car ferry tolls, incomes, rents, rolling stock for use in connection with the mortgaged lines and ferry. Reserved from the operations of this agreement are all the terminals of the company and the subsidies granted."

Objections were raised to the action of the Alberta government in giving the A. & G. W. the option of lifting the mortgage on its terminals. These are excluded altogether in British Columbia. In Winnipeg and in Toronto, where the government guaranteed C. N. R. terminals for very large amounts, they were dealt with by separate measures from those dealing with the proper person.

railway line. The Alberta authorities acted in strict accordance with general practice in this connection.

It will also be noticed that the C. N. R. is continuing on certain subsidies to aid it in carrying out its project and that these are expressly reserved from the operation of the mortgage. There is no such reservation in Alberta.

The comparison between the two roads and the treatment given them might be carried a little further. Much stress was laid upon the fact that the A. & G. W. had only $3000 paid-up capital. This was made to do heavy duty in the speeches in the Legislature and in newspaper articles. It is quite obvious that the time to have objected to the smallness of this amount was not now but a year ago, when the bill incorporating the company was passed, and provided that it should have the sum. Why did Mr. MacKenzie and Mr. Cashin not see to it that their paid-up capital was required? Nothing has happened since the session of a year ago to affect in the slightest this part of the general arrangement.

But, leaving all this aside, it should be carefully noted, that the British Columbia government is pledging that province's credit to a very much greater extent than was the case in Alberta, with the A. & G. W. agreement, and that there is nothing to show that one cent of the C. N. R. stock has ever been paid in. There was a time when this latter fact was made to do duty by those who were opposing different proposals for guaranteeing C. N. R. lines, just as the fact that only $3000 has been paid up by the A. & G. W. has been made to do duty here. But leaders in the financial world knew the men behind the C. N. R. just as they knew the men behind the A. & G. W., and this criticism was soon disarmed. In response to it, Mr. B. E. Walker, general manager of the Bank of Commerce in November, 1902, gave an interview, in which he declared that that institution had no more satisfactory connection than that of Messrs. MacKenzie & Mann, and the Canadian Northern Railway. The promoters of the A. & G. W. Railway, as good business standing as are Messrs. MacKenzie & Mann. Is it fair, is it in the interests of the development of the provinces, to criticize their operations because of the amount of their paid-up capital, when we have seen that MacKenzie & Mann have done, throughout the whole Dominion without being required to pay up even $3000. If railway builders wish to finance in that way, it is their own business. It is absolutely no bearing on the liability of the province or the protection given it.

Lastly, it should not be lost sight of that the security of the A. & G. W. government will consist solely of the road itself. This is the case in Alberta and the point of first importance in connection with the discussion that has been going on in the Legislature is whether, when completed, the road will be a sufficiently valuable asset to afford adequate security for the guarantees which the province has given. It is accordingly to this matter that the Capital has directed the most of its attention and it is because it is satisfied that it has done all that it has given it to the bargain in the negotiations.

Finally, it is the country's fault, that the company has been subjected to a fierce onslaught in some of the eastern papers, and again, as there are a large number of shareholders in this city, I consider the matter of sufficient public interest to be discussed on this page.

The company is capitalized for $2,000,000 in one dollar shares, par value, all common. It is organized under the laws of the state of Washington with head office in Seattle.

Under the laws of Washington all the shares of a company must be subscribed for by the incorporators. This being done a pool was formed on the capital stock and 1,050,000 shares were donated back to the pool. $1,450,000, or 1,350,000 shares, were given to the pool, $100,000 to the company, and the remaining amount among the directors. Finally, the company may sell all of this pool stock as required by the directors for the treasury. An agreement not to sell any of the stock was executed by the directors. Henslow Maddock, so far has been the only one to violate the agreement. This was the first time the directors had had Maddock. Even at that Maddock only sold a portion of his interest in the pool subject to the conditions of the pool.

Maddock has never sold his own stock to the public, neither has any of the directors. No vendor's stock has ever been offered to the public. In Toronto, 423,883 treasury shares were sold, mostly at 10 cents. In Toronto, 26,218 treasury shares were sold for 15 cents, on the usual four-payment plan.

Maddock's arrangement with the company was for a salary of $150 a month.

A DOG'S LIFE IN ONTARIO

(Toronto Star.)

Breaches here a pup with soul so dead Who never to him! If hab said:

This is my own, my honest face, Whose soul high ne'er within sin burned.

As he remarked: I will be burned, I'll lead those cops a fearful chase?

If such dare mark well his mien, His wagging tail, his fur coat's sheen, Despite his manner, peaceful, bland, Between his jaws stick not hand.

Living, he chased all over town, And would if he could wear a frown.

And nabbed at last, wil soon be found incarcerated in a pound,

With some fierce eye and visage grim,

Will give the "coup de grace" to him.

Thus, dying forthwith he'll go down

Unto some dump outside the town,

To the vile depths from whence he sprung,

Unmuzzled, true, but not unsung.

ALBERTA OIL PROPOSITIONS

Some Comment From the Vancouver Saturday Sunset in Regard to Them

"Bruce," the editorial writer of the Vancouver Saturday Sunset has the following:

Several of the directors of the Hornbeam-McBride Oil Co. invited me to look into the organization and position of that concern this week. As some of them are numbered among Vancouver's most prominent business men and have a good standing in this community and as the company has been subjected to a fierce onslaught in some of the eastern papers, and again, as there are a large number of shareholders in this city, I consider the matter of sufficient public interest to be discussed on this page.

The company is capitalized for $2,000,000 in one dollar shares, par value, all common.

It is organized under the laws of the state of Washington with head office in Seattle.

Under the laws of Washington all the shares of a company must be subscribed for by the incorporators.

This being done a pool was formed on the capital stock and 1,050,000 shares were donated back to the pool.

$1,450,000 in shares were given to the pool, $100,000 to the company, and the remaining amount among the directors.

Finally, the company may sell all of this pool stock as required by the directors for the treasury.

An agreement not to sell any of the stock was executed by the directors.

Henslow Maddock, so far has been the only one to violate the agreement.

This was the first time the directors had had Maddock.

Even at that Maddock only sold a portion of his interest in the pool subject to the conditions of the pool.

Maddock has never sold his own stock to the public, neither has any of the directors.

No vendor's stock has ever been offered to the public.

In Vancouver 423,883 treasury shares were sold, mostly at 10 cents.

In Toronto 26,218 treasury shares were sold for 15 cents, on the usual four-payment plan.

Maddock's arrangement with the company was for a salary of $150 a month.

The Most Startling Musical Announcement Ever Made

THE STEINWAY PIANOLA PIANO

Steinway & Sons recently gave their consent to an arrangement with the Aeolian Company for the building of a Steinway player piano.

The new instrument has been placed on the market and is called the STEINWAY PIANOLA

For many years the distinguished firm of Steinway & Sons has made a close study of the player situation—the proneness given to this phase of the piano trade making such investigation compulsory on the part of a house that has always been first in keeping its product in advance of the times.

However, Steinways would not consent to any agreement concerning a player piano until it was proven beyond doubt that such uniting of the time-honored name of Steinway with that of a player device would add lustre to the Steinway reputation for supremacy.

The announcement of the Steinway Player has already created the most profound interest in musical circles throughout the world, and its unbounded success has been assured from the beginning.

While themselves manufacturers of an extensive line of pianos, the Aeolian Company have by this uniting of their device with the Steinway piano placed the approving seal of high piano-trade authority upon the recognized supremacy of Steinway, since the Steinway Pianola Piano will be the highest type of player offered for sale by this or any other house.

The vast resources of the Steinway house, with its tremendous American and European prestige, stand as a gilt edge security for the perfection of the new instrument.

The Price of the Steinway-Pianola Piano is $1500

Gossip of the Summer Games

TOMMY HARE, HAS A DREAM

The Cobalt Bear-Magnate has a Vision in Which he sees World's Series Hockey Games

What would we do without the sporting writer with the vivid imagination, found so abundantly in the East? Last week they told us that the big hockey league for 1916 would find Wanderers and Renfrew in the "missing list." But listen to this one which originates with that peerless magnate, Tommy Hare of Cobalt. "The barbers' friend" has a dream—

"The Philadelphia car strike with its accompanying riots, the siege of Sebastopol and even the Battle of Magersfontein pale to insignificance before the average quiet hockey match in the Ontario Pro League."

Last week Bradford proceeded to Berlin and what happened to them was terrible. Everything went to murder. After being chased out of town by a howling mob of Dutchmen, amid a shower of winecusters and guttural German oaths, the battered Bradfordites got back to their home town in fragments.

Gathering along the sacred mountains of Joseph Brant, and inspired by the warlike bronzes of Indian braves that surround the figure of the great chief, a terrible oath was taken to get even, and did they get even? Listen!

Uncle Stayed at Home.

"On Thursday night Berlin came down to play the return game in the Telephone City, with a body of 200 Deutschers. Rumors of the reception that awaited them had percolated to their town and Uncle Gross, who would injure Sanford, found that he would be unable to make the trip. Easy Out.

Visitors "Lay Down."

Berlin went on the ice like a bunch of whipped ears and did not venture near the brand-new defense, contenting themselves with shooting from centre. The size of their score can be imagined. Bradford in the interim amassed eight goals, but the spectators were not satisfied. The vented blood and flushed for gore in no uncertain tones. Finally the opportunity came. Dusty, in scoring a goal, was chopped by Lehman. The men with the holo maniac rushed to a clinch and in a moment the ring resembled a Galician wedding party.

A C.Q.D. signal was rushed to the head-quarters and a detachment of the boys in blue hurried to the battle. They got the gamblers sorted out. Manager Pop Williams led a march to the dressing room, which had Napoleon's masterly retreat from Moscow lashed to the mast and the compass thrown overboard.

The fat red flint was escorted to the station, followed by a mob resembling a southern lynching party. Before the car left there were re-enacted disturbances, bottles (empties) and other weapons being hurled at the visitors, none of whom were badly hurt. The police arrested two Bradford offenders, who will be prosecuted.

But a story like this sounds almost rational compared with some of the stuff handed out from "the greatest mining camp (on paper) that the world has ever seen."

By the way, this Cobalt management gets through paying off the deficit incurred by the bunch of world-leaders that is representing them this season, they won't care whether Pittsburg or Noo Yawk comes in or not.

YALE CREW IN GREAT PERIL

While out Rowing Among the Ice Flees they Were Almost Overcome—Bodies as Blue as Their Jerseys

New Haven, March 6.—The Yale freshman crew had a thrilling time yesterday afternoon when the first rowing of the season was done on the harbor with the temperature far below freezing. Wallis, the veteran stroke of the varsity, took his crew down the river and back without any trouble, but when Walker, stroke of the freshman, got into the harbor, the coxswain, being unfamiliar with the wind and currents, was unable to turn his boat around. The oars were covered with ice. The water was rough and the freshmen splashed themselves thoroughly when the starboard backed and the port side pulled in an effort to turn the light shell in the gale.

The men's hands were numb with cold, and the oars of Anthonius, No. 3, and Walker, stroke, broke like toothpicks. The six remaining oars pulled desperately to right the boat, which was drifting out into the Sound. But when all were about to dive in and swim for shore the boat, having drifted into a reverse current, swung around of its own accord, and the men finally rowed back into the river. The men were nearly in a condition of collapse when they reached the boathouse.

THERE WAS RIOT AND DISORDER

The Final Hockey Game Between Brantford and Berlin in Trolley League Was Some Contest

The Philadelphia car strike with its accompanying riots, the siege of Sebastopol and even the Battle of Magersfontein pale to insignificance before the average quiet hockey match in the Ontario Pro League.

Ice was Rather Soft and Favored the Wanderer Forward Line—Hyland and Glass Starred on the Forward Line, While Johnson at Cover was a Stonewall—Lesuer, the Ottawa Goaler was Splendid—Betting 2 to 1 and Montreal Sports Took all the Loose Change in Ottawa, Only the Government Mint is Left

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Ottawa, March 7.—Wanderers handed Ottawa's crack hockey seven another cold-blooded trouncing Saturday on their own ice by a score of 3 to 1. The result practically hands over to the Montrealers that much-coveted piece of silverware, the Stanley Cup, for which many memorable hockey battles have been fought. Wanderers have but to trim Canadians before their order to transfer the famous mug to Montreal will be honored. "That is a joke," says Jimmy Gardner, "we can easily do it." It was a struggle fiercely fought from start to finish. Ottawas furiously forced attack after attack on Wanderers' nets, only to be completely repelled by that peerless defense, Johnson, Marshall and Hern. Dazed and bleeding, the champions staggered up and down the ice in confusion, checked each other, and skated over the pack in their frenzied fury to retain that cherished title, but in vain. The visitors proved too much, with the grim determination they set out to west away the laurels from the champions.

The Play.

The ice was covered with water, but it was fairly hard. It meant a human endurance test and Wanderers immediately adapted themselves to such conditions. Ottawas lacked this foresight and remained to stick work, which clearly demonstrated poor generalship. Wanderers were aggressive right through the game, especially Russell, Glass, Johnson and Hyland. They always were in front of Ottawas' nets waiting for a chance to shoot. Any time Lake or Small got away Johnson seldom let them by his position at cover, and consequently Ottawa could get but few stray shots at Wanderers' nets. When they did Hern would block beautifully. Hyland, Russell and Johnson starred for Wanderers, while Hyland's marvels shone, when he scored from a hard angle took the crowd.

Time and again Ottawa made clumsy dashes down the ice, four abreast, but their combination was invariably broken up before they had a chance to shoot. At no time did the champions seem really dangerous. Frank Patrick, Renfrew's star, referred to the satisfaction of the crowd. He had a long time as play was unusually rough, mingled with treacherous vicious tripping and slashing.

Show as rover showed the effects of stiff checking and dropped back to point. Lake coming up, Lesuer often said Ottawa by rushing out of the net when it looked as though Russell or Hyland would score. Penalties were heavy. Ottawas were the most frequent offenders. The dome went round that Wanderers would lay for Small meaning Ottawa would score. They were foiled, however, as Montrealers were after the rubber and nothing else. Just before the game betting was straight 2 to 1 for Ottawa, they being favorites on soft ice. Wanderers' backers eagerly picked up bundles of coin at these odds, leaving the Capital well laden with long green. About eight thousand fans packed the Arena, including two train-loads from Montreal. Hundreds were turned away who crowded the streets in front of the newspaper offices, content to follow the game from the bulletin.

Renfrew magnates had their whole team at the rinkside and they expect to win over Ottawa when they clash for all time.

SPARKLETS

Glints from the Sporting Anvil

One member of last year's baseball team will be very prompt in reporting this season. He is expected along next week, but it is understood his cleverly in getting to the Hall is not to be attributed to baseball matters entirely. It seems there is a young lady in the case—Medicine Hat News.

In common with all mothers of great fighters, Mrs. Wolast of Cobalt was "strongly opposed to her son's taking up pugilism as a career, now that he's in it," etc., etc. There's no material difference in these expressions of apologetic pride and parental solicitude. All you have to do is to switch the name, the date and the postoffice, and one will answer for all time.

Teams captained by Jack and Dan Knott will play in the Y.M.C.A. bowling league this evening. Wander-

LA COMBE BEAT STRATHCONA

Handed the Northern Alberta Champions a Decisive Defeat—Final Score war 12 to 0

LaCombe, Alta., March 4.—The final of the amateur hockey championship of Alberta took place on the LaCombe ice tonight between that team and Strathcona and resulted in a decisive win for the home players by 12 goals to nil. In the practice preliminary, the Strathconas boys showed up in a good fast combination, but the actual contest was an example of good heavy men being better than good light ones.

The puck was faced off at 8:45 with Pete Burley, of Edmonton in charge and W. H. Hanna, of Del Deer, judge of play. Straight from the face off the puck was sent out to the left where Garland raced down and scored with half a minute. Strict attention to off-side by the referee terminated many promising movements. At five minutes, Garland duplicated the previous success, but about the same time Stewart, of Stettler, got a shot past the Strathcona net and alighted the fence for two minutes, summing up in the LaCombe goal. He had but the puck was pushed out of danger. Munn effected a miraculous shot past Lesuer, Wanderers 1, Ottawa nothing.

Ottawas attacked fiercely, but nothing doing. Puddles of water stopp'd when Shore attempts stick work. Johnson repeatedly goes down side by Shore and Lake check him hard. Gardner warns his men to escape penalties. Small traps Hyland mix it up, both go off. Johnson plays mostly center. Ottawas get desperate and charge on Wanderers' defense, but Johnson gets away, makes whole length of ice, and Walsh slashes him and goes off. Lake makes great rusher but Johnson gets him every time. Half-time, Wanderers 1, Ottawa 0. The water is scraped off the ice, which is very soft.

Second Half.

Wanderers come on much fresher with dry uniforms. Face off. Small goes down but Johnson blocks. Ridpath and Kerr start a rush. Johnson throws Kerr and breaks his own skate. Ridpath comes down. Russell slides him and goes off. Ottawa playing 7 to 5 but can't score. Pace is terrible. Ottawas are shooting wild into crowd, and look outclassed by Wanderers. Russell gets in and scored. Wanderers 2, Ottawa 0. Ottawas come back strong, but their wings pass to far for Walsh at centre who misses repeatedly. Ottawa's whole team play on forward line. Ridpath gets away and shoots past Hern. Wanderers 2, Ottawa 1. Crowd goes crazy. Wanderers take long shots and Glass slips rubber by Lesuer. Wanderers 3, Ottawa 1. Wanderers playing great centre game and keep puck around Ottawas' nets. Ottawas attack fiercely. Small, Walsh, Kerr and Ridpath dash down the ice abreast but Johnson cleverly blocks. With time up on Wanderers play defense, content that they can win. The line-up was:

Ottawas. Wanderers. Goal.

Lesuer Hern Point.

Lake Marshall Cover-point.

Small Johnson Rover.

Shore Glass Centre.

Walsh Russell Right wing.

WANTS BOARD BILL OUT OF ESTATE

Henry Paradis, of Edmonton, Claims Late Pierre Charbonneau "Sponged" on him Without Compensation.

Claiming that the estate of his late father-in-law owes him $1,680, Henri Paradis, a carpenter of this city, is suing Gilbert Charbonneau, a farmer of Horse Hills, and Silas H. Paradis, a farmer of Lamoureux, executors of the estate of Pierre Charbonneau for that amount. "The case was heard before Chief Justice Sifton in the Supreme Court this morning."

According to the plaintiff, Pierre Charbonneau died on February 21, 1909. For the period of time from January 5, 1904, to September 5, 1908, his father-in-law lived with the plaintiff, and did not pay any board.

board, and lodging and personal attention at the rate of $10 a month. Paradis claims that the estate of his father-in-law owes him $1,680. According to the defense the plaintiff resided in the deceased's house for several years rent free, and the vis-à-vis of the father-in-law, although of ten length, were friendly.

"Would you have brought this action if your wife had been left any-thing by the will of her father?" asked his lordship of Henri Paradis, when the latter was in the witness box.

"No, of course not," was the can-did reply, "not if it had been a fair amount."

After hearing the evidence, his lordship arrived at the conclusion that there was no grounds for suit and so dismissed the case.

"I don't care to adopt the principle that if a father lives with his daughter he must pay for his board," said Mr. Gariepy, counsel for plaintiff, and the chief justice agreed with him.

EXTRA VOTE OFFER CLOSES IN A WEEK

After March 14 a Greatly Reduced Schedule of Votes will be Given—The Contest Closes Three Weeks from Tonight—Plenty of Time to see All Your Friends, but no Time to Lose

One very commendable feature in this contest is the good feeling prevailing. Everyone seems to realize that there are enough prizes for all, but everyone also knows that the finest fruit hangs high, and to get the best they much reach far.

The Ones Who Will Win.

The people who are leading now and the ones who will lead at the finish are those who have taken this contest to bed with them; men and women who realize that to reach the kind of heart's desire it is necessary to travel the more or less rocky roads of patience, perseverance and intelligently directed effort. Merely thought will not win anything, as some of the candidates who are "laying low" in the voting line are just as liable to win the grand prizes as any one. It is still anybody's race.

But It Isn't Too Late.

"Oh, it's too late for me to do anything now," said a disconsolate candidate the other day. "I am going to try to win the small district prize, but goodness gracious, I never could overtake any of these people who have over 100,000 votes."

"Well, this was a sort of poser for the contest man, and so he guessed so, too."

People who are made of the right kind of material do not make excuses—they work. They do not complain about the advantages of someone else; they hustle and keep gradually forging to the front.

VOTING SCHEDULE UNTIL MARCH 14.

This schedule will remain in force until the above date, after which a greatly reduced schedule will prevail.

CATASTROPHE JUST MISSED

TRANSCONTINENTAL NEAR FIELD AVOIDED SNOWSHIDE BY A MINUTE

Vancouver, B.C., March 6.—That another fearful catastrophe by snowslide on the Canadian Pacific was missed by the narrowest margin yesterday afternoon was made known today when reports came in of the second avalanche which now blocks the west-bound passenger train.

It was train No. 97, carrying more than one hundred passengers and not more than a minute elapsed from the time it passed a point east of the Field station when the slide came which buried the tracks for a thousand feet and to a depth of twice as high as a Pullman car. By the narrowest margin the passengers escaped with their lives. Today they are at Field, held between the two slides, and are not likely to be released before late tomorrow evening. Railway crews are working day and night to clear the first slide at Ross' Pass, clearing off the tracks. Up to noon today no bodies had been found from the eight reported yesterday. The bodies of A. Pott, ruff, engineer of the work train and Alf. Mahon, brakeman, which were found just before dark last night, were sent to Revelstoke this afternoon. Mahon's body will be brought to Vancouver for interment, while Pott, who was a resident of Revelstoke, will be buried there.

By tomorrow evening it is expected that the slide will be clear, most of the bodies of the white men will probably have been recovered. Almost all will be brought to Revelstoke where citizens are making preparations for the solemn duty of a great funeral on Wednesday or Thursday. Scores of the relatives of Revelstoke.

RESCUE WORKERS IN DANGER.

Ever in danger of other slides which, though small, might mean loss of life, five or six hundred workmen are engaged on the work of rescue. Rotary plows are working on each end, but the weather, especially today, is terrible, blinding snow, rain and sleet have alternately been falling since the night of the slide and the wind blows through the pass as though it were the small end of a funnel.

Canadian Pacific officials were questioned today regarding the Winnipeg report that at least 92 were dead. The railway men declare positively that only 62 are missing and that of course all of these are supposed to be dead. The figures have been carefully checked and the total death list of 62 appears to be correct.

THIRTY BODIES RECOVERED.

Vancouver, B.C., March 6.—Up to six o'clock tonight thirty bodies have been found at Rogers' Pass, ten of them Japanese. All the men in the section gangs in that vicinity have been checked up.

"There is nothing but this to the total death list. The Canadian Pacific railway train leaving here this afternoon at 3:15 is expected to pass the slide at 8 p.m. tomorrow night. Train 97, which was nearly caught by a slide yesterday afternoon, is still at Field.

THE MAN FROM BRODNEY'S

For the benefit of those who did not read the first instalments of George Barr McCutcheon's great serial "The Man from Brodney's," now running in the Capital, the following summary is given:

Taswell Skaggs and Jack Wyckholme, after some domestic strife, left England for the Far East. They met in Shanghai and joined in an enterprise to exploit the wealth of the island of Jap. which they bought from the natives for a song. It abounds in rubies and other precious stones and for thirty years they carried on operations there, growing very wealthy and keeping out of touch with friends at home. When they were old men they discovered that each had a grandfather. Skaggs' daughter had married an American named Brownie, and had a son. Wyckholme's daughter had a daughter, Agnes Ruthven by name. They made a will each leaving his share of the property to the survivor. Wyckholme died just a little while afterward. Skaggs fell into the crater of a volcano. At the opening of the story, Skaggs' second will, made after Wyckholme's death, is puzzling the lawyers. The two grandchildren, must marry within a year to secure the property or the entire island reverts to the natives. Sir John Abercrombie of London, is named as Wyckholme's executor and Alfred Bowen, of Boston, as Skaggs'.

What complicates matters is that both children are married.

Wyckholme's daughter is Lady Deppingham. The question is, how with the situation as it is, the vast estate is to be saved from the natives.

On the advice of their lawyers, both Brownie and Lady Deppingham set out for the island. Brownie takes his wife, to whom he protests that he would not give her up for all the world.

Lord Deppingham is hard up.

Both sides realize the advantage of working together against the natives.

The third chapter introduces Holmgarth Chase, a young American boy means large prospects, but simple habits of life, who is representing the American government in the small American colony of Rappethorpe.

He has become much interested in the beautiful Princess Geneva, daughter of the Grand Duke.

The fourth chapter finds him at a reception at the hotel palace.

He happens to see a man making himself obnoxious to the princess, throws him outside the garden gate, only to discover that he is the hereditary prince of Brezelz, to whom the princess is engaged. She doesn't seem to mind his action, but his position becomes insecure.

The fifth and sixth chapters find the Deppingshams arrived at Jap. with Mr. Saunders, the lawyer's clerk. They find the natives very unfriendly.

Accompanied by Mr. Bowles, British representative in the island, they repair to the chateau of the former proprietors.

The next morning the Browns put in an appearance.

The servants go on strike, but are brought back through the resources of Browne's lawyer, Britt, who threatens them with the visit of a United States battleship. The two families live in different parts of the chateau. Lord Deppingham becomes convinced that the servants are trying to poison him.

On the advice of Von Blitz, the German Superintendent, the natives engage the great English firm, headed by Sir John Brodney, to look after their interests. A member of the firm eventually arrives, and is an object of much mystery. The Browns and Deppingshams do not know his name but learn he is an American. The mystery is deepened by the news that he has had a falling out with Von Blitz and gives him a sound thrashing.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR
MCUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

THE great mines, min security, and the German has a lot of influence over the people. It may be uncomfortable for our good looking friend."

"If he should be in greater danger down there," said her ladyship firmly—perplexed consciousness of the fact that she was in the chateau."The others looked at her in surprise.

"We can't stand off and see him murdered, you know," she qualified hastily.

The next morning a messenger came up from the town with a letter directed to Mr. Brodney. The address was from the enemy and requested them to meet him in private conference at 4 that afternoon. "I think it will be for the benefit of all concerned if we can get together," wrote the enigma.

The messenger carried back with him a diplomatised response in which the counsellors for Mr. Browne and Lady Dethompson reluctantly declined to engage in any conference at this time.

At 2 o'clock the entire party of native servants picked up their belongings and marched out of the chateau. The major domo, suave and deferential, gravely informed Mr. Britt that they were leaving at the investigation of their legal agent who had told that hour issued his instructions.

"I hope you are not forgetting what I said about the American garrisons," said Britt ponderously.

"Ah," said Battie, with a cunning smile, "our man is also a great American. He can command the gunboats, you a rear American cocktail, a mint julep, a brandy snifter or anything you like. That's the first kick up my way just back of the bungalow. It's never precious than a ruby mine, let me tell you. And yet I'll gladly exchange 300 carats of rubies for Mr. Britt, for a dozen boxes of your own. You know, how, gentlemen, I made the greatest mistake of my life in failing to bring a ton of these little white sticks out with me. I thought of Gordon gita, both kinds of men, the best and the worst sort of thing, and completely forgot the spirit of life. I happen to know that you have a million packages of them, more or less, up at the chateau. My spleen told me. I dare say you know that I have a million packages of them."

"This is all offered in a kindly spirit, you understand," said the magnanimous enemy. "We might as well live comfortably as to die unseasonably now, and I am sure you will agree with me."

Saunders, please tell Lord Dethompson, that he persists in snooping about the ravines in search of rubies. He's got an unmanageable bullet in his head, and he's been a nuisance ever since he came to the chateau. The major domo, suave and deferential, gravely informed Mr. Britt that they were leaving at the investigation of their legal agent who had told that hour issued his instructions.

"I hope you are not forgetting what I said about the American garrisons," said Britt ponderously.

"Ah," said Battie, with a cunning smile, "our man is also a great American. He can command the gunboats,

"The Mine Owners' Association, gentlemen, comprises the entire population of the town. Here, I receive my clients. Here is where they receive their daily loaf, if you will pardon the simile. I sit in the chairs; they squat on the rugs. We talk about rubies, and the mint juleps, and the mint juleps, and the mint juleps, and the mint juleps. Sit down, gentlemen. This is the American bar. Here you tell us about—their wives have searched all Europe for, I dare say."

"Reminds me of home, just a little bit," said Britt as the tall glasses were set before them. The Englishmen still clinked in relief.

"They don't drink mint juleps," was the sober reflection of Thomas Saunders.

"I shall, confound it," exploded Saunders, smiting the table mightily. "I've had mint juleps anyhow. It needs taking down."

"Ah, Selim," interrupted the enemy as the native boy entered, "no mint, eh?"

"I'm, excellently, the ship is not due to arrive for two weeks."

"Ah, but, Selim, you forget that I am expecting a letter from Van Bill's wife. They promised to let me know how soon it is safe to resume work at the mine."

"I've had our polished him off neatly," said Britt, with a grin.

"Just the rough edges, Mr. Britt. He is now a gem of purest ray serene. By the way, I hope you'll not take my mint suggestions amiss."

"I'm not ready to commit myself to your point of view, but I will mention the mint. How about your client, Saunders?"

"I can't say as to Lady Dethompson, but I'm quite sure his brush will make no objection."

"I'm not ready to commit myself to your point of view, but I will mention the mint. How about your client, Saunders?"

"Look here, old man," said Britt his cheeks glowing; "it's mighty good of you to take this trouble for us."

"I'm not ready to commit myself to your point of view, but I will mention the mint. How about your client, Saunders?"

"Just this, Mr. Saunders," said the enemy, leaning forward earnestly. "I'm not ready to commit myself to your point of view, but I will mention the mint. How about your client, Saunders?"

"I think we'll take you up on that proposition to trade mint for elegances," said Mr. Britt. "Mr. Browne, my client, for one, will satiate his desire."

"I've got a rippling idea," Saunders said one day.

"Selim passed the straws, and the three men took a long and simultaneous "puff" at the refreshing juice. Mr. Saunders felt something melt as he sat back, long and satisfying breath. It was the outer ring of his cautious reserve.

"I think we'll take you up on that proposition to trade mint for elegances," said Mr. Britt. "Mr. Browne, my client, for one, will satiate his desire."

"I've got a rippling idea," Saunders said one day.
